Map shows trails in Lincoln County

- Peters Pond Preserve – A beautiful, quiet, undeveloped pond! A 1.6-mile mile loop from Dutch Neck Road is well blazed, taking you to the pond. You can also get to the pond from Gross Neck Road.
- Clarry Hill – 1.25 miles, one way, through blueberry fields, woods and to an undeveloped pond. A treat.
- Geele Farm Trail – A pretty and varied 2.5-mile (or shorter) walk, with places to swim in Medomak River.
- Osborn Finch Sanctuary – This is a short walk, .7 miles or so, but the views of the Medomak River are gorgeous, and you can also rent a little seaside cabin here.
- Reef Point Preserve – A walk along a dirt road takes you to a .6-mile loop that passes by a pretty stretch of the Medomak River.
- Goose River Peace Corps and Mill Pond preserves – About 2 miles of trails (which intersect with snowmobile trails) on a roughly 100-acre parcel, with some pretty spots along the river and pond.
- Burkett Mill Preserve – This is a large preserve (with good blueberries!).
- Quarry Hill and MVL Founders Preserves – This preserve has been updated with two largish blazed loops taking you through meadows and woods. There is also a little trail around the quarry pond, and a snowmobile trail through the beautiful blueberry barrens.
- Waldoboro Town Forest – There is a 1.5-mile blazed loop in this 65-acre woods. The walk takes you through an old-growth hemlock tree stand.
- Marine Park – Very short trails, pretty and small park. Used as a boat launch.

- Riverbrook Preserve – A lovely 1.5-mile trail along the Medomak River and through fields has been extended to include another loop by Meadow Brook.
- Guy Van Duyn Refuge – A .4-mile trail leads down to a tidal marsh.
- George Gould Nature Preserve – At the former AD Gray School, you can do a .9-mile marked loop through the woods and to a meadow.
